These health safety protocols rely heavily on the self-regulation and cooperation of our members and guests. Currently NASF does not have the volunteers or resources necessary to constantly monitor for compliance of these protocols. As we move forward in this battle against the COVID-19 virus, it is important for us to remember that we will be successful if we look out for each other. We appreciate your trust and understanding as we move through this new way of participating in the sport we enjoy. From the time you arrive at the NASR, until the time you leave, our focus is and always will be the safety and well-being of you and our volunteers.
